Liquor Fire Sale In Vancouver Today

There will be a fire sale on liquor in Vancouver today when the Davie Street liquor store will reopen for business after a recent fire.

Label-damaged stock will be offered for sale at bargain prices, but LCB officials in Victoria yesterday didn't know how far liquor prices would be marked down.

Eye to Eye—and Tear-Filled

Two great wartime leaders, who never did see eye to eye, forgot old scores yesterday at a sentimental ceremony in Paris. In belated recognition of his help to France, Sir Winston Churchill, with tear-filled eyes, was presented with Cross of Companion of the Liberation — France's highest award — by Premier Charles de Gaulle. It was first meeting of the two warriors since the war. Paeans of praise for one another, voiced after the ceremony, were far cry from days when Sir Winston remarked: "Of all the crosses I had to bear, the Cross of Lorraine was the heaviest." Ironically, medal conferred on him yesterday was in the shape of that cross—symbol of de Gaulle's Free French movement during the war.—(AP Photofax.)

Fate Week Away

VANCOUVER (CP) — The sentencing of ex-cabinet minister Robert E. Sommers and a convicted co-conspirator was put off for a week Thursday because the maximum penalties to which they could be liable revolve around an intricate point of law.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson announced the adjournment after listening to defence and prosecution as to what penalties might be imposed on the 47-year-old former forests minister and 46-year-old Wilson Gray, timber executive said to have passed him bribes for ministerial favor.

CROWN'S VIEW

Crown prosecutor Victor Dryer argued the penalty could be from five to seven years on conspiracy and one year on each count of bribery. Sommers has been convicted of conspiracy and five charges of bribery and Gray on conspiracy and eight bribery counts.

But the defence argued the most they should get is one year on each conviction.

ANTI-CLIMAX

For the public and an anxious press corps it was an anti-climax. The public filled the 150 seats in the galleries half an hour before court was convened.

But they did hear one piece of news from Sommers' counsel, Angelo Branco. In arguing the previous good character but poor financial position of his client, the lawyer said Sommers now is "an ex-MLA," that his resignation papers were going forward to the proper authorities.

BELIEVED AUTOMATIC

Previously it had been believed that by his conviction on conspiracy Saturday Sommers automatically lost the Rossland-Trail legislature seat he has held for the Social Credit party since his cabinet resignation.

But Attorney-General Bonner said the interpretation his legal experts put on the appropriate act was that Sommers' offence was not such as to cause automatic loss of his seat. But it was inferred that his resignation was expected.

Mr. Justice Wilson, who presided at the marathon trial and who will be 60 today, looked serious as he entered the hushed and crowded court and began to hear counsel.

THREAT REPORTED

The Vancouver Sun had reported earlier that his life was threatened. It said an anonymous caller told the judge's secretary there was a plot to kill the jurist in his home and this caused police to take precautions.

The judge himself would not comment on the report. But it was recalled that during the 79-day trial he once admitted he was getting "poison pen" letters from people who charged he was biased and at that time police kept a watch on him for several days.

SIX CONVICTIONS

Sommers faces sentence not only on the conspiracy conviction but on five convictions of accepting bribes amounting to some $7,100. He said the money was legitimate loans from his friend, Wilson Gray, that had been repaid. Gray faces sentence on conspiracy and eight counts of bribery. Gray's companies, Pacific Coast Services Limited and Evergreen Lumber Sales, also face fines for conviction on conspiracy and on eight and two counts of bribery, respectively.

'Jump in Lake'

Judge Fed Up With Bar

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia bar society was told Thursday to jump in the lake. And by no less a person than Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the B.C. Supreme Court.

He made the comment to Gordon Dowding, lawyer and CCF member of the legislature, when asked when the judge thought it would be possible to get on with a case involving out-of-town witnesses.

Mr. Justice Manson retorted that he was "fed up with the bar of this province" because it has "done nothing to assist the bench in getting two more judges."

He advised Mr. Dowding to "get busy with the bar, otherwise all you can do is to take a jump in the lake."

Mr. Dowding said later: "I was ready to take umbrage until I realized he meant the bar society and not me."

He said there has been no concrete action on requests for more judges.

Dec. 8 Earliest Date For Rossland-Trail Vote

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday the government "welcomes news of the resignation of former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, convicted in Vancouver on charges of bribery and conspiracy.

Sommers' lawyer Angelo Branca told the court in Vancouver yesterday the resignation had been mailed, but government officials said later the document still hadn't reached here.

CLEARS WAY

"The government welcomes the news because it clears the way for the riding of Rossland-Trail to be represented at the next session of the legislature," explained the attorney-general.

Mr. Bonner had said earlier it wasn't believed the conviction of Mr. Sommers constituted an automatic forfeit of his legislative seat.

NO DELAY

He said the earliest a by-election could be held would be 31 days from today, which would be Dec. 8. He said the government would move immediately on securing the Speaker's warrant of the resignation of Sommers. "There will be no delay," he said. He added that the cabinet could set a byelection date during the absence of the premier, who is on vacation.

Mr. Bonner said he "expected the Socreds would definitely contest the Rossland-Trail seat" of Sommers and added that "if I am asked I will personally campaign."

SUCCESSFUL OUTCOME

He added: "I do know the road program there is one that has received general approval and when the cabinet was there recently we were impressed by the generally favorable attitude."

WORKING ON COST

Mr. Bonner said comptrollers in his office were working on the costs of the Sommers case prosecution. "I have asked a lot of questions on it," he said.

The attorney-general said also he expects to give the full story of his side of the drawn out Sommers case tomorrow.

"If my staff agrees it will be protocol to do so I will give a statement," said Mr. Bonner. He indicated he had been itching to tell his story since the early days of the case, but had reluctantly heeded his advisers.

BOTTLED UP

The attorney-general claims he has been bottled up because the case was sub-judice during the time it was before the courts and because if he had spoken earlier it would have divulged how much evidence the crown had for or against Sommers and the others involved.

Mr. Bonner said crown counsels of the Sommers case, Stuart McMorran and Victor Dryer, will meet with him and his legal advisers this morning to consider the 19 charges the jury failed to agree on. He said a decision on whether the charges will be tried again is expected this afternoon.

B.C. Forest Products Declared Not Guilty

B.C. Forest Products Ltd. was found not guilty on five charges of bribery by the jury in the Sommers case Wednesday. The jury disagreed on one other count.

Due to an unfortunate typographical error The Daily Colonist erroneously stated that the company had been found guilty on the five charges.

The Colonist deeply regrets and apologizes for any embarrassment caused to B.C. Forest Products.

Two Weeks After Bump

Last Body Up At Springhill

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — The last body was removed from the Cumberland No. 2 mine Thursday night, two weeks to the hour after an underground upheaval which claimed 74 lives.

Even as workers sought the last remaining bodies, the Nova Scotia cabinet ordered a royal commission inquiry into the disaster, the worst in Canadian mining history since 88 men died at Stellarton, N.S., in the 1920s. The make-up of the commission was not announced.

The fate of the mine, employer of 900 men and the only major industry in this town of 7,000, is uncertain. Few expect it to remain open and fewer want operations to be renewed.

Dosco officials said Thursday maintenance crews will be kept on until a decision is made. Last week Sir Roy Dobson, chairman of the parent A. V. Roe of Canada Limited, said he didn't think No. 2 would re-open.

Dosco coal chief Harold Gordon visited bereaved families again Thursday.

The coal chief returned Monday after two days rest in Sydney. He toured the shattered pit, then called on the families of the 74 victims.

Eight more funerals were held Thursday.

Israel-Arab Duel Halted

TIBERIAS, Israel (CP)—A United Nations-imposed truce Thursday ended a two-hour tank and artillery duel between Israeli and United Arab Republic forces near Lake Huleh.

Swift intervention by UN military observers succeeded in choking off the barrage over the Syrian border at 4 p.m. local time. An earlier request that fighting cease at 3 p.m. had been ignored.

The incident apparently began with sporadic rifle fire directed against an Israeli tractor plowing land in reclaimed fields south of Lake Huleh. Within minutes it became a battle—with both sides using artillery, mortars and tanks.

UBC Asks Dulles

VANCOUVER (CP) — Secretary af State Dulles of the United States has been asked to speak at the University of British Columbia later this month.

Mike Jeffrey, chairman of the students' special events committee, said he expects a reply shortly in answer to a phone call to Mr. Dulles' secretary in Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The projected shot at the moon by the Air Force was postponed last night because of "technical difficulties."

Earl Joins Project

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province says Earl Alexander of Tunis will be made a director of Peace River Development Company, the Wenner-Gren firm which plans a multi-million dollar development in B.C.'s Rocky Mountain Trench.

The newspaper says he will be "a principal" in the big project planned by Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren.

Crack GM U.S. Courts Requested

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate committee recommended Thursday that the justice department consider court action to break up the giant General Motors Corporation.

The report also criticized what it called the disappearance of price competition and misleading automobile financing practices.

Packer Sinks

VANCOUVER (CP) — The fishpacker Squamish Queen sank Thursday night off the west coast of Vancouver Island, the RCAF reported here. The crew was rescued.

Atom-Bombing Japan 'Our Greatest Blunder'

LONDON (UPI)—U.S. Brig.-Gen. Thomas Phillips (Ret.) said on a worldwide radio hookup last night that the dropping of the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima was "the greatest blunder in our history," and added that it heralded the beginning of the "new dark ages."

Speaking on the BBC program Radio Link, he said people in the United States "devoutedly hope for an end to nuclear tests and the destruction of nuclear weapons already in existence."

But he said he did not think there was an overwhelming wave of popular public opinion backing moves to end nuclear tests at any cost. While the nuclear race was on the United States must keep up with the Soviet Union and that therefore tests must go on.

Granny Awaits Burial As Family Watches TV

CANTERBURY, Eng. (Reuters)—An Anglican clergyman said Thursday a family he visited was too absorbed in watching television to discuss arrangements for a family funeral.

Rev. Ingram Hill told a diocesan conference here:

"By a great deal of talking I just got inside the front door, but for all that talking I might as well have stayed outside.

"Grandma was to be buried the next day but they could not care less, because of the small box in the corner.

"The conversation was conducted with one eye on the screen."

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, told delegates a television set was installed in Lambeth Palace, his official residence.

"I gradually realized that my work would be ruined for I found myself sitting watching it," he said.

"Since I got in front of the set I stayed until the thing shut down for the night."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

MASSETT, Queen Charlotte Islands — The old plank road through the moss-grown seaside woods has taken a beating from the trucks of oil-drilling crews.

Cascade Drilling Co., working for Richfield Oil Co., has moved away from the Tow Hill area to a point south of Massett. I haven't met the head man of the operation, but I understand that the drilling crews have found nothing so far.

Before they left the north beach, the oil company boys knocked a lot of dents in the aged plank road, which was beginning to get rickety anyway.

We drove out over that road after several days of heavy rains, and found a number of the planks splintered and swimming about, some of them swept away altogether. Once the light truck bogged down in a deep hole and had to be laboriously levered out.

Massett people say that since the district road headquarters was moved away from Massett, the roads in these parts have been completely neglected.

The road linking Massett and Port Clements was finished this summer, completing the road from this town on the north end of Graham Island with Queen Charlotte City at the south end.

"It took 'em 50 years to do it, and I notice they only completed it when there was an oil company operating here," said one Massett resident, expressing a commonly-held viewpoint. They are a cynical crowd here.

They claim that for the amount of money exacted from residents of the islands in taxes, they should get better road service.

As for the old plank road north and east of here, a stretch of it is still passable, but other sections have been somewhat battered. I will be sorry to see the planks ripped up, because they are a colorful feature of the landscape. However, some length of plank road needs to be either fixed or replaced with gravel surface.

This is the road that clam-digging trucks take to the wide beaches where razor clams are dug to be canned in the Queen Charlotte cannery and to serve as bait in the crab-pots. A big slide that blocks the road completely at Tow Hill must be removed before the clam crews can get by.

However, the razor clam season proper does not begin until next spring.

There are large stretches where the beach can be used as a highway. Cars and trucks can whip along it at high speed for miles. However, it is a highway that must be used with caution. A number of cars and trucks have been lost on it in recent years because they stopped in the wrong place.

Considerable areas of the lower beach are perfectly safe to drive on, as long as you keep moving. But if you stop, you're sunk—literally.

Two late-model cars belonging to the drilling company were caught this way. The tide rolled over them. The cars were later recovered, but they had been seriously damaged by salt water and sand. I heard (although I have not yet been able to confirm this) that one of the vehicles that had suffered a sea-change, a 1957 car, was sold in Queen Charlotte City for $300.

Other cars have vanished, never to be seen again.

If you drive on to the beach, your insurance no longer applies. So any car that is sunk in the Queen Charlotte sand is a total loss.

Gibson Tells of Interview:

Bennett Was Told Evidence in 1955

VANCOUVER (CP)—Former MLA Gordon Gibson brought out "all the evidence now before Mr. Justice Wilson" in an interview with Premier Bennett one day before his famous "money talks" speech in the legislature early in 1955.

"I tried to talk the premier out of issuing forest management licences," said the former Liberal MLA yesterday. The date was Feb. 15, 1955, 10 months before Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy presented Attorney-General Bonner with a "body of evidence" concerning Robert E. Sommers.

David A. Sturdy, the lawyer who started the wheels moving in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy case, Wednesday disclosed a telegram from Attorney-General Bonner in which the initial evidence of Charles Everafield was rejected.

Mr. Sturdy Wednesday produced a copy of a telegram which he said he received from the attorney-general Dec. 8 1955. It said:

"Had no prior knowledge of purpose of your visit yesterday but anonymous phone call to expect attack upon a government minister made sense by time you left.

"Your mysterious behavior subject matter of interview including refusal to discuss arranging appointment, desire to conceal whereabouts of your informant, your advice that informant had in hand or at hand material supporting allegations made for two years but not presented to Lord commission, and that you were advised of such material as together with contents of today's wire, all now co-inciding with a byelection campaign, fills me with profund skepticism toward entire matter . . ."

HODGSON, Man. — Hazen Argue says the Conservative government sought the easy way out of an embarrassing situation by concealing protests by the United States against higher customs barriers.

Vancouver Sun, Publisher Fined

$5,000 for Contempt

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, trial judge in the Sommers Bribery conspiracy case, fined the Vancouver Sun and its publisher, Donald Cromie, a total of $5,000 Thursday for contempt of court.

The publisher and the newspaper each was assessed $2,500 because of an article on the trial and accompanying headlines which appeared in The Sun Aug. 11.

The motion that they be found in contempt was made by J. R. Nicholson, counsel for H. Wilson Gray and Pacific Coast Services, two of the defendants in the lengthy and complex trial. Both were convicted of bribery and conspiring to bribe Robert E. Sommers while he was minister of lands and forests.

SUN AND CROMIE

Mr. Justice Wilson ordered the Sun and Mr. Cromie to pay costs.

Mr. Nicholson sought the contempt citation at the time the article bore the headlines: "Bribery kingpin declines to testify," "H. W. Gray shuns witness box;" and "H. W. Gray keeps mum."

In fixing the fines the jurist said:

Mr. Cromie will have to remain in custody of the sheriff until the fine is paid. I can't escape that."

BANKS CLOSED

He relented when Senator J. W. de B. Farris, representing The Sun, noted that the banks had closed for the day. Mr. Justice Wilson gave Mr. Cromie until noon today.

Mr. Justice Wilson said:

"The general level of reporting during the whole course of this trial, in the newspapers and in such radio reports, as I have heard, including the Vancouver Sun, has been of a high level and unobjectionable.

"This particular incident, I am bound to say, constitutes a regrettable aberration from that standard, because this headline is offensive and does constitute contempt of court.

"I say that for a newspaper to assert that an accused man is a kingpin in a bribe case before a jury has reached any verdict, and while the case is still before the court, is wrong, and very wrong.

"The consequences of such actions, of course, are unpredictable, but it might well have led to a new trial. I hope that Mr. Cromie, and whoever else is here from the Vancouver Sun, will absorb and remember that. This was a very bad thing to have done."

Cheerful News Says Bonner

"Sometimes you do get cheerful news," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said here yesterday when told the Vancouver Sun and its publisher had been fined $2,500 each for contempt in connection with the Sommers case. Mr. Bonner has been under heavy attack by the Sun for some time.

Sommers' Sentence Put Off for Week

possible maximum penalties arises because halfway through the lengthy trial the indictment was switched from the new to the old Criminal Code. The alleged offences all took place before the new code became effective April 1, 1955.

The penalties provided under the two codes are different, and the new code has a transitional section specifying that in certain cases its lesser penalties shall apply. It also specifies that while conspiracy alone might draw a maximum of five years, the conspiracy penalty cannot be more than the one-year maximum for bribery under certain circumstances if it is a combined charge.

PUNISHED ALREADY

J. R. Nicholson, arguing for Wilson Gray, said he had already suffered "severe punishment" through his conviction and the resultant publicity. And he was being forced to abandon his six children.

The companies involved will be subject to fines. Arguing this point, Mr. Nicholson asked the judge to consider that 28 families depend on Pacific Coast Services for their livelihood and a heavy fine could mean ruin for the firm.

MORE FOR RICH

Mr. Justice Wilson said he questioned whether it was right for a judge to consider the financial position of a company liable to a fine. If such a course were followed through, a rich man would be fined $100,000 and a poor man only $100 although their crime was the same.

Search Fails For Lost Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCAF Dakota returned to its Vancouver air base Thursday night and reported finding no trace of a small plane missing on a flight from Calgary to Kamloops, B.C., with one man aboard.

A full-scale search will get under way today for the twin-engine craft.

The air force said the plane, piloted by E. E. Royce of Cadillac, Mich., left Calgary at noon on the three-hour flight to Kamloops. The red and white plane carried enough fuel for five hours' flight.

Rebels Hijack Third Airliner

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — A Cuban airliner that vanished Wednesday night is in rebel hands and all 28 persons aboard are safe, a qualified source said Thursday. It was the third Cuban airliner to be hijacked in little more than two weeks.

The informant said radio messages from the Cubana Airlines DC-3 reported the aircraft is being held on a rebel airstrip.

The radio messages said the rebels promised to turn over the 25 passengers to the International Red Cross as soon as it can be arranged. No mention was made of returning the three crew members.

The hijacking of airliners seems to be developing as a favorite tactic of the rebels. After nearly two years of violence and bloodshed they are apparently no closer to their goal of toppling the government.

Poor Widow To Comfort Grandchild

WOMBWELL, England (Reuters) — A 60-year-old widow living on a weekly pension of 50 shillings is being sent to Vancouver next Tuesday by residents here to comfort her granddaughter, 15, due to have a leg amputated.

The girl — Christine Hibberd—is said to be constantly crying for her grandmother.

Local folk have raised £250 toward her fare and expenses.

Christine's family moved to Canada last year. Thursday night Mrs. Annis Hibberd said: "It all seems like a dream. I : all never be able to thank these people enough."

'Shocking Abuse of Law' Laing Accuses Bonner

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal Leader Arthur Laing Thursday called for Attorney-General Bonner's resignation over the Sommers case.

He also called on Premier Bennett to "assess his own position" and urged that the government immediately suspend the granting of public resources "to selected private chosen instruments."

Mr. Laing charged that Mr. Bonner is "guilty of the most shocking abuse of the law. His utter cynicism has convinced him decency has no defenders. His resignation will only make official a departure he has already taken."

Long Delay 'Insufferable' For Sommers

Eric Charman, vice-president of the B.C. Young Conservatives Association and often mooted as a Victoria provincial Conservative candidate, last night called for the resignation of the Social Credit government over the long-delayed Sommers case.

"The most pitiful aspect of this long delay is that Sommers has been subjected to an unnecessary and insufferable period of anxiety and embarrassment."

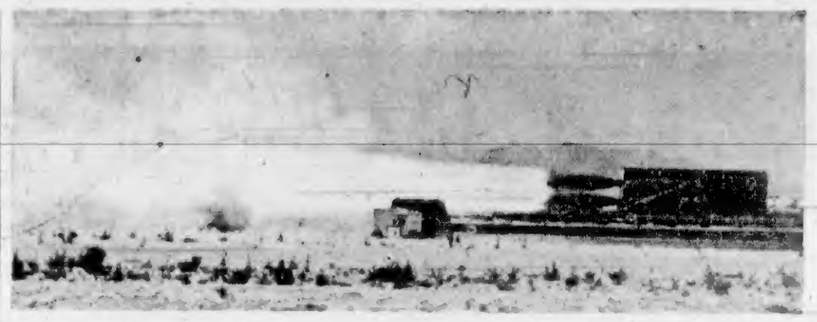
Bars Open, No Drunks

CALGARY (CP)—Nobody could explain it, but for the first time in years no drunks turned up in magistrate's court yesterday, the morning after the opening of cocktail bars in Calgary, for the first time in 35 years.

Court officials couldn't [illegible] when the week had last been free of drunks.



Sled Catches Shells in Flight

Five-ton rocket sled streaks along tracks at supersonic speed to catch a live artillery shell in full flight. The device is used at Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico, to recover shells undamaged so that scientists can study what happens to the fuse in free flight. Sled travels at 1,000 miles an hour and at a predetermined spot meets up with the shell as it drops to the ground, gathering it up in its heavily padded interior.

Ottawa Plans New Jobs for Scientists

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is taking measures to prevent dispersion of a group of electronic and missile engineers and their exodus to the United States, it was learned Thursday.

The problem arose last month when the government scrapped two major defence projects: the Sparrow air-to-air missile and the Astra armament control system for the supersonic Arrow jet interceptor.

Many engineers had to be laid off and industry sources said last week that hundreds were seeking new employment in the U.S.

Authorities said Thursday the government has arranged to keep some 200 of these engineers at useful work by awarding their companies small development-type projects that the armed forces wanted done.

Government officials did not furnish an estimate of the amount of money involved in this scheme but an industry source said the total would come to between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

The arrangement is only a temporary one and will cover a period of about five months. By that time the government believes the engineers involved will be reassigned to other engineering work in Canada.

The government, meanwhile, is pursuing negotiations with the U.S. for production-sharing arrangements between the two countries in the field of defence.

RCAF Stages Rousing Welcome

Diefenbaker Turns Down NATO 'Directorate' Plan

GROSTENQUIN, France (UPI) — World-touring Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, concrete evidence of Canada's NATO contribution before him at this RCAF fighter wing station, yesterday flatly rejected French Premier Charles de Gaulle's reported proposal that France, the United Kingdom and United States form a three-power policy making "directorate" atop the western alliance.

The prime minister, who arrived here from Paris for a one-day tour of the 1,200-man base, told newsmen that Canada could never accept any plan which altered the basic NATO principle founded on "the common contribution of all member nations."

While rejecting the de Gaulle idea, Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated a previous statement that his government would always welcome any suggestion for improving consultations among NATO members.

Asked to comment on the NATO record in general, the prime minister said that the western alliance had an outstanding record as a deterrent against communist aggression.

He added that leaders he had talked to recently had been unanimous in their opinion that Canada's European NATO forces in particular had been "a model of the efficiency in deterrent."

Mr. Diefenbaker, his wife and brother Elmer, and other members of the globe-circling party received an enthusiastic welcome on their arrival here.

The prime minister was especially delighted by the uninhibited outburst of some 600 flag-waving Canadian youngsters.

John D's Family Tree Rooted in Germany

GROS TENQUIN, France (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who visited the Highland homeland of his mother's people last weekend, goes today to Germany, the land of his great-great-grandfather left many years ago.

At a press conference yesterday the prime minister said his great-great-grandfather moved from Baden, Germany, to Holland, where he established himself.

In the past, the Canadian leader has told questioners his paternal ancestry is Dutch. His great-grandfather Diefenbacker—the name was spelled with a ck then—emigrated from Holland to York, now Toronto, about 1815.

Three years earlier, his maternal great-grandfather, George Bannerman, emigrated to Manitoba's Red River settlement from Kildonan, the Highland village the prime minister visited Sunday.

Eight Bitten By 'Wild' Dog

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—A dog went wild in the playground of a school here Thursday and bit eight children. Two youngsters, after seeing their family doctors, were taken to hospital for anti-tetanus injections. City dog catcher Walter Crawford, assisted by city police, was searching for the animal.

Progress Ousts Splendor

MONTREAL (CP) — The fading splendor of this city's famed Windsor Hotel is to give way to the inexorable march of progress. Part of the hotel will be demolished to make way for the Commonwealth's tallest building—a steel, concrete and tinted glass structure of 42 stories.

New building will house provincial administrative offices of Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Public Confidence Shaken

IT would be idle to pretend that the conviction of Robert E. Sommers of accepting bribes while minister of lands and forests in the Social Credit government has not cast a shadow over the administration, and left British Columbia with its worst public scandal in history. The Bennett government will be expected to give a full explanation of how this came to pass and what it proposes to do now that public confidence has been badly shaken by the whole affair.

The courts will deal with Mr. Sommers and others convicted on the same set of facts, but it is the government which must now act to dissociate itself from the implications of the long-drawn-out case. Any suggestion that a pattern had been set up under which forest management licences could be peddled for private gain strikes at the foundation of governance itself. For three years Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner have been saying that the case was subjudice, as it was. Leaving partisan manoeuvres on the part of the government's political opponents aside, the road is now clear for Mr. Bennett to speak out. How did this state of affairs come about, and why the long delay in bringing matters to a head?

In view of what has emerged at the trial, there should be an immediate re-examination of all forest management licences granted during the administration of that portfolio by Mr. Sommers. There are also amends to make to senior and permanent civil service members of the provincial forest service, whose advice was set aside and discountenanced at the time.

The government has been slow to recognize the political implications of a scandal that has grown from the incipient, rumor stage to its climax this week in the criminal court. It is perhaps not so much a question of the premier or the attorney-general resigning under pressure from opposition parties in the Legislature, as the need for action now to see that such a state of affairs cannot occur again.

Three years ago when the Sommers affair was fulminating, this paper urged the government to appoint a legislative inquiry to sift the matter, beginning with the administration of the portfolio concerned. That opportunity was unwisely neglected. Although this stage of the trial is ending, there may be other trial processes to follow, including the strong probability of appeals which could be before the courts for months yet. Meanwhile British Columbia must re-establish confidence in the machinery of governance, and backtrack to examine everything done while Mr. Sommers was the minister in charge.

Jury Pay Grossly Unfair

IT now appears certain that the members of the jury engaged in the bribery and conspiracy trials in Vancouver since last spring will receive from the Crown some special compensation for their exceptional service. An unusual recommendation to that effect by Mr. Justice Wilson won the immediate personal concurrence of the attorney-general, and the granting of supplementary remuneration therefore would appear to depend only on the completion of whatever formality is necessary.

The Crown can well afford to be generous in this particular instance; but the service demanded of these nine men and three women also illustrates the supreme absurdity of the rate at which the payment of jurors generally is fixed. At $6 a day a juryman is paid less than half the going rate for common labor, about a quarter of that of some trades requiring no outstanding skill. In terms of a five-day week the jurors in this case in their 79 days' attendance in court performed the equivalent of 16 weeks' work. For that they will each receive the magnificent sum of $474.

Service on a jury is service to the Crown demanded of a citizen as part of his or her public duty. It never was intended and never should be accepted as service for monetary advantage. But neither should it be required of any man or woman at such heavy personal loss; or that part of the cost of public trial should in effect be borne by the 12 individuals summarily appointed to determine the guilt or innocence of an accused. Justice certainly is not being done to those who dispense it.

The need for realistic revision of the scale of compensation has long been apparent. Perhaps now something will be done about it. As matters stand none but an old-age pensioner can afford to sit on a jury.

Spreading Its Net

THE RCN is offering another inducement to recruits; it is widening the opportunity of attaining commissioned rank. Gold braid is not the only criterion of the navy, and in fact the petty officer corps is the backbone of any ship. There is service aplenty with honor and distinction even without a ring on the coat sleeve, and nowadays in particular a commendable degree of initiative and intelligence is required of all ranks.

It is not in the nature of things that all crew personnel have desire for commissioned status; many prefer to spend their careers on what probably is miscalled the lower deck. Where any young sailor has an eye on an admiral's flag, however, no previous educational disbarment need now stand in his way. The navy will make up for any such deficiency by schooling him itself. This should be a boon for the type of sailor at whom the new program is aimed.

Many young men are forced to leave school without gaining matriculation standards, and through no fault of their own. Family circumstances often cut short the education of bright students. Some of these boys find their way into the RCN, and potentially have the material the navy is looking for to keep its officer cadre at full strength.

It is planned now to inaugurate several courses through which educational standards may be brought up to the required level, either by junior matriculation training, grade examinations set by the department of education, or special officer-training courses. Obviously the RCN is spreading its net so that no good prospect is missed; contrariwise no young sailor need fear lack of opportunity for advancement.

The navy should benefit also from the fact that when they are commissioned the successful candidates will have had experience of the lower deck.

Communists Wreck Myth

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE hue and cry over Boris Pasternak's Nobel Prize is hitting Russia where it hurts.

Ever since the bad old days of Josef Stalin, Soviet propaganda has worked hard and not unsuccessfully to recapture the sympathies of Western intellectuals whose initial attraction to the textbook communism of Marx and Lenin had been alienated by the old dictator's repellent methods of putting it into practice.

Since Stalin's death, the Russians had been busy repairing the damage. The West was given a chance to admire the incomparable Bolshoi Ballet, the fabulous violin playing of David Oistrakh, the dynamic performance of pianist Emil Gilels.

A crack Russian hockey team toured Canada and earned non-political praise. Other Russian athletes made their mark at the Olympic Games and in world soccer tournaments. Their scientists mingled on friendly terms at international conferences, their businessmen entertained visiting Western delegations and their agricultural experts toured American farms.

All these contacts helped to demolish the picture of the Soviet citizen as a blindly obedient puppet, whose movements were rigorously controlled from the Kremlin. In his place appeared a human being, ostensibly no different from his opposite number in the West.

Now, with the chorus of denunciation that greeted the award of the Nobel Prize for literature to Pasternak, the Russians are right back where they started.

Mindful of the controversial nature of Pasternak's novel, "Doctor Zhivago," the prize committee had tactfully specified his poetry as the object of the award. If the Soviet authorities had chosen to follow the lead from Stockholm, the 68-year-old author could have accepted his award without embarrassment.

They couldn't afford to take the chance. Doctor Zhivago had never been published in Russia. But the book challenged some of the most treasured concepts of the Communist state. It was a threat that could not be ignored.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A READER asks about the poem which made the poppy the core of the annual Remembrance, "In Flanders Fields." It was written by the doctor-soldier poet mentioned here yesterday, John McRae of Guelph, Ontario.

He wrote it in the white-heat of front-line service and sent it to Punch. It appeared in that journal, unsigned, on December 8, 1915. It quickly became the poem of the army, and with respect to its theme it is probably the best known poem in the world.

John McRae himself lies "between the crosses, row on row," for he died in hospital at Wimereux on January 28, 1918.

* * *

Perhaps the verses of "In Flanders Fields" are not familiar to everyone. Here they are:

In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place: and in the sky
The lark still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved, and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The Torch: be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

* * *

For your scrapbook here are two verses from another of John McRae's poems, in somewhat the same vein, "The Anxious Dead:"

Tell them, O guns, that we have heard the call,
That we have sworn, and will not turn aside,
That we will onward till we win or fall,
That we will keep the faith for which they died.

Bid them be patient, and some day, anon,
They shall feel earth enwrapt in silence deep:
Shall greet, in wonderment, the quiet dawn,
And in content may turn them to their sleep.

* * *

From a lady who signs her verse Edialeda comes these lines in "Memory of the Scarlet Poppy." They belong to today's theme:

Each scarlet poppy is a soldier boy
Who fought for liberty.
Each poppy is a soldier brave who died for you and me.
Those scarlet poppies reign supreme,
They stand on guard in fields so green.
Father, brother, son, they all
Await perchance again the call;
Each scarlet poppy bright and red
Is a fond remembrance of our dead,
Who fought for us in wars and bled.
Buy scarlet poppies one and all
And help our veterans' cause;
Remember, oh remember
We hope for no more wars.

The Pasternak Story

Forty Years Under the Soviets

With the publication in English of Boris Pasternak's "Dr. Zhivago," a great Russian writer has for the first time given an unbiased, uncensored picture of life in his own country since the Revolution. The book is reviewed here in an article which appeared in The London Daily Telegraph.

By DAVID FLOYD

A FEW works by Russian authors, mostly in the earlier years of the regime—those of Ilf and Petrov and of Zoschenko come to mind — have held one aspect or another of the Soviet system up to criticism or ridicule.

But never since the regime was installed 40 years ago has there appeared a work attempting to sum up the whole significance of the Russian Revolution in human terms and to put it into its true place in Russian history. That was Boris Pasternak's aim in writing "Dr. Zhivago."

"You have the right to ask me whether I believe what I have written," he told a Western journalist who visited him in his home near Moscow. "My answer is yes. I have borne witness as an artist; I have written about the times I lived through." He wanted, he said, to provide a document of the age.

* * *

On another occasion he said: "My novel is no political pamphlet. It is just the story of a man and his family whose fate it was to live in our momentous epoch." It is, indeed, no political tract for or against the Soviet system, written by some outside "expert." It is the work of a man deeply imbued with the spirit of Russia, who has lived through all the terrifying events of the past 40 years, and who has yet managed to remain outside them and untouched by them.

As a witness Pasternak is unique, because the authenticity of his knowledge cannot be questioned and his judgments are made in terms of universal human values which everyone, in Russia and outside, can understand. It is as though Tolstoy had lived to witness and write about the Russian October and its aftermath.

The revolution is no more than a vague backcloth to the novel, which is primarily concerned with the experience of Dr. Zhivago, the disillusioned but romantic intellectual who in his detachment from the world around him parallels Pasternak himself. The comments on the regime and its works are therefore incidental to the story but they are devastating when they come.

* * *

The whole of Stalin's years of economic terror is summed up in a few sentences about Bolshevik officials:

"How lucky to be so blind. To be able to talk of bread when it has long since vanished from the earth! Of propertied classes and speculators when they have long since been abolished by decree! Of peasants and villages when there aren't any peasants or villages in existence! Have they no memory? Don't they remember their own plans and measures?"

In a few words Zhivago summarizes the effects of the Revolution on the Russian people:

"It was then that falsehood came to our Russian land. The great misfortune, the root of all the evil to come was the loss of faith in the value of personal opinions. People imagined that it was out of date to follow their own moral sense, that they must all sing the same tune in chorus."

In the same way, with fierce strokes of his brush, Pasternak reveals the horrors of the concentration camps, the relief that came with the war with Hitler — which was "a breath of fresh air, an omen of deliverance, a purifying storm"; the hopes that followed the war—"a presage of freedom was in the air throughout those postwar years"; and the failure of those hopes to be fullfilled.

* * *

But what mattered for Zhivago, as for Pasternak himself, was the preservation of his own values and principles. It is because Zhivago succeeded, as Pasternak has also succeeded, in this task that the book is not permitted to appear in Russia itself. The high priests of Soviet literature prefer to disclaim and ban a great work of art than to have their own hypocrisy and literary impotence revealed by its appearance.

Alexei Surkov, the present dictator of the Moscow literary world, is reported to have said that to permit the publication of "Dr. Zhivago" would be tantamount to renouncing the whole Soviet regime. It was this, as much as his own personal hatred of Pasternak, that sent him rushing to Italy to try to prevent its publication there. It was this that prompted other efforts to stop the book from appearing in English.

But it has appeared, first in Italy and France and now for the whole English-speaking world. And Pasternak is still alive and free.

* * *

He owed his survival under Stalin, who murdered so many of his contemporaries, to nothing but his great genius. It seems equally unlikely that Stalin's successors will want to destroy the author of the one genuine work of art to emerge from Russia in the past quarter of a century. It is even possible that Mr. Khrushchev has in fact connived at the appearance of this book outside Russia as a proof that everything has not been lost.

Nor is it still impossible that Dr. Zhivago will appear in Russia, even if in a slightly expurgated edition. If it did, that would offer genuine grounds for believing that the hopeful note on which it ends is justified and that something new is really stirring in Russia.

Who's to Know . . .

If Experts Don't?

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THE Canadian man-in-the-street, we are frequently told, knows little and cares less about the great moral issues and crises which split and wrack his world. And yet, we can't help sympathizing occasionally with the man who throws up his hands in despair and cries out: "What's the use. If they don't know how am I to know?"

Take cessation of nuclear tests.

Two weeks ago Dr. O. M. Solandt, described as "one of Canada's leading nuclear scientists," and the former head of the Defence Research Board, had the following to say in Montreal:

"We must recognize that the cessation of tests may produce conditions in which Canadians will be called upon for new sacrifices in the cause of freedom." He referred to the huge forces of conventional armaments and manpower we would have to maintain. Dr. Solandt argued that the "best hope" of achieving an effective defence is centred around further development of thermonuclear warheads for defensive use.

Dr. Solandt, be it noted, was chief Canadian delegate at last summer's world conference on effects of radiation and technical obstacles to a global ban on nuclear tests.

Then three days ago External Affairs Minister Smith spoke in a UN disarmament debate:

"Given good will and good faith there is no reason for any more test explosions after the end of this month."

Dr. Smith, of course, did not say cessation of tests was the entire answer to the disarmament problem. It was nevertheless apparent he regarded it as desirable.

We agree with Mr. Man-in-the-Street. If Dr. Smith and Dr. Solandt don't know how are we to know? It's a confusing old world.

Danger in Hanging a Hat

(From The Portland Oregonian)

THE forest industry has come up with a switch on the old saw about "for want of a nail," etc. Not for want but for presence of a nail deep inside a log a band saw may fly to bits and valuable property and possibly the life of a sawmill worker will be lost.

Ernie Kolbe, chief forester of the Western Pine Association, tells of inspecting a logging operation where trees were being cut eight feet above the ground. The trees stood on the site of a former hunter's campground and were so full of nails it was dangerous to fell them with a power saw. Where the hazard is not so apparrent, a nail imbedded in a log might reach a sawmill before it did its damage.

While neatness is to be admired in a camper, Mr. Kolbe asks that hunters do not pound steel nails into trees to provide hangers for their gear. Aluminum or copper nails are less dangerous, but best of all are wooden pegs forced into holes in the bark. The hunter should consider this admonition when he looks for a place to hang his red hat.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

ON the radio the other night I heard one of those panels of mixed ladies and gents discussing culture: Canadian culture. And the more intently I listened the more I realized that they were each talking about something different. So I got the dictionary, and sure enough, there are ten different definitions of culture. The three or four definitions, any one of which may have been in the mind of the different panelists, that are nearest the subject they were trying vainly to discuss, are these:

Development or improvement by education or training.

Enlightenment or refinement resulting from such development.

A particular state or stage of civilization, as in the case of a certain nation or period; such as Greek culture.

The sum total of ways of living built up by a group of human beings and transmitted from one generation to another.

One of the panelists thought culture meant opera and the ballet. Another thought it had to do with table manners and a knowledge of contemporary painters. One had a phoney English accent and thought Canada should adopt English culture, which, I take it, is an English accent. The fourth member was just bewildered.

Panels should select one of the above dictionary definitions and agree as to which culture they are talking about. A panel discussing Canadian eggs would admit at once that it was hen's eggs they had in mind, not ant's eggs, fish eggs, frog's eggs, dinosaur's eggs, all of which we have in Canada.

Letters to the Editor

Lord's Day Act

In the year of 1906 the Dominion Parliament passed the Lord's Day Act of Canada. By this act Canadians have established a legal right to Sunday as their weekly day of rest. Unnecessary toil and business are declared to be illegal on Sundays. When Sunday work is recognized by law to be necessary the Lord's Day Act requires that another day of the week be a day of rest.

In the campaign which led to the enactment of this legislation the Lord's Day Alliance gave effective leadership in each province as well as the business and labor organizations, and the co-operation of the Christian churches of Canada. It is stated that during the first year in which the Lord's Day Act was enforced upwards of 80,000 Canadian citizens regained their freedom from toil on Sunday.

It is true that "union rules" do provide Sunday rest for many workers, but it should be borne clearly in mind that countless Canadians have no other protection in the matter of Sunday rest than that which is afforded by the Lord's Day Act of Canada.

It has been stated that the enforcement of the Lord's Day Act of Canada is an attempt to legislate people into the churches on Sunday. No statement could be further from the truth. The Canadian Sunday law is humanitarian and not primarily religious. It makes Sunday a day of rest, not a day of worship or of religious activity. There is nothing whatsoever in the Lord's Day Act that states people must attend church on Sunday. It requires Sunday to be a day of rest, not of employment. So far as religion is concerned the Lord's Day Act provides the opportunity for its free exercise in our Dominion.

It should be kept clearly in mind that the Lord's Day Act of Canada provides ample liberty to individual citizens, and groups of citizens, for voluntary recreation and non-commercialized entertainment. The Lord's Day Act had been attacked by individuals, and groups, who do not wish to use Sunday for the cultural good of the community but rather for financial purposes. Amateur sports without commercialization have always been within the law.

When we as a ministerial state that we are opposed to anything that is a violation of the Lord's Day Act it is only another way of stating that we are opposed to interests that try to make people work on Sunday and seek to derive financial gain from conducted business enterprises, entertainment, or cultural development that might be held on the Lord's Day.

There is no attempt whatsoever to restrict these things if they are done for the good of the public and not for the financial reward or gain that might be made out of them. We should remember that the proper observance of the Lord's Day is the most cultural influence we have in any community.

We would like it to be clear to all that we only stand for those things that are in the best interests of all the citizens of our community. We solicit the support of all citizens of our city to respect this legislation, and we would ask all who are interested in the welfare of people who have no other protection than this act, to co-operate in making Sunday a day free from labor.

It should be made clear that this is one of the laws of our Dominion, and the enforcement of it is the responsibility of the police and of the attorney-general of each province. There is no reason why the enforcement of this act should be treated with less concern than the enforcement of any other statute of our Dominion.

The ministers who have signed the above letter explaining the position of the Ministerial Association in this matter have had the kindness to show it to me and, although I cannot of course speak for my brother Anglicans in the city as a whole, I welcome this opportunity of saying that I am in thorough accord with it.

None So Kind

I read in the Colonist, a letter re the Veterans' Hospital. My husband is now home after a severe operation. My heartfelt thanks go to the doctors, nurses and aides.

Nowhere is this wide world is there a hospital run on such humane lines. Visiting is allowed every evening, 7 to 8.30, and afternoons three times a week, 2 to 3.30; and in cases of emergency, anytime with special permission.

My thanks also go to the Red Cross where one can stay, if next of kin, or family, when one lives out of town. Also to the voluntary services given by the ladies of Victoria. It made my anxious three weeks a restful time, knowing that I was near my dear one.

Rebuffs Nasser

Iraq's new premier, Abdel Kerim Kassem vowed yesterday to preserve his nation's independence and sovereignty. Statement was interpreted as rebuff to pro-Nasser factions anxious to link up with United Arab Republic. Kassem yesterday raised Army pay and promoted students who recently failed exams because they'd been "unable to concentrate on studies during nation's unrest."

Servants' Wage 'Adjustments'

Wanted: Figures

Premier Bennett has promised provincial employees "re-adjustments" in their wages, but they aren't getting excited until they see the figures, Victoria Labor Council was told Wednesday night.

Dennis Heinekey, a B.C. Government Employees' Association delegate, said Mr. Bennett had correctly said he couldn't disclose budget provisions until the budget is brought down at the next legislative session.

So there could be just "one or two adjustments and he wouldn't be pulling anyone's leg," Mr. Heinekey said. "We want to see the figures first."

Jack McKenzie, International Woodworkers of America delegate, reporting on last weekend's institute of informative classes at Central Junior High School, said they were invaluable but attendance of unionists was "pitiful."

Smiles During Murder Hearing

I'll Clear the Court Magistrate Warns

Smiles among spectators at a crowded preliminary hearing on a murder charge against 16-year-old government ward Matthew John Till, brought a threat from the magistrate yesterday to clear the court.

"I'm not very happy at the type of humor taking place in this courtroom," Magistrate A. I. Thomas said. "We have spectators who are smiling. If it doesn't stop I will clear the courtroom. This is a serious matter."

The small provincial police court was packed with spectators, nearly all women, apparently expecting to hear testimony of Mrs. Phyllis Mudge, 28, widow of Charles Mudge, 38, the foster father Till is accused of slaying in the Mudges' Metchosin Road home Sept. 13.

SLAIN ON SAME NIGHT

Found slain on the same night in the Mudge home was John Brand, 71, Mrs. Mudge's father.

Recently recovered after being badly beaten on the night her husband and father were killed, Mrs. Mudge is not scheduled to appear until the end of the hearing, which may come Saturday.

Yesterday Mrs. Joan Harvie, 3314 Metchosin testified she failed at first to recognize Mrs. Mudge when the latter came to a neighbor's door the night of the slaying, crying hysterically, "Johnny has gone crazy, he has killed Chuck and my Dad."

VISITING RELATIVES

Mrs. Harvie said she was visiting her relatives at the rear of the Mudge home at 3460 Metchosin that night when Mrs. Mudge came to the door shortly after 8.30 p.m.

"This person staggered in," said Mrs. Harvie. "She was a female and I didn't recognize her until she spoke. Then I recognized her as Phyllis Mudge."

The witness said Mrs. Mudge was covered with blood, her face was cut and swollen, and she was in a state of shock.

GONE CRAZY

"She said: 'Johnny has gone crazy. He has killed Chuck and my Dad.'" Mrs. Harvie recalled. "We were just horrified. She asked us to get a policeman, to lock the door and put the lights out."

Magistrate Thomas' threat to clear the court was addressed to Till's defence counsel, Joseph McKenna.

The lawyer replied the people were smiling because prosecutor Kenneth Murphy had almost tipped over in his chair.

CROSS-PURPOSES

"Now your honor, I'm not going to get at cross purposes with you," the defence lawyer said on another occasion during yesterday's hearing.

"You'd better not, Mr. McKenna," the magistrate replied.

Const. R. C. King of the RCMP identification branch was recalled to the stand regarding the taking of Till's finger and palm prints at Oakalla prison after his arrest.

ALL OVER HOUSE

"Did you say: 'Your fingerprints were all over the house?'" asked Mr. McKenna of the witness.

"No, I don't think so. I can't recall, but I'm quite sure I did not say that," replied Const. King.

Mr. McKenna asked the witness if he said to Till: "Your fingerprints were all over the house in blood."

"No, I don't recall saying that," said Const. King.

The constable said Till had not objected to the taking of his prints.

"How could he object?" asked Mr. McKenna.

"You don't know that, Mr. McKenna," said Magistrate Thomas.

"I do know," replied counsel. "He was in Oakalla with two guards there. He is 16 years of age or somewhere around that."

It was about this time that Mr. McKenna knocked a bottle off the lawyer's table into a box of exhibits. Some glasses with fingerprints on them, offered as exhibits previously, were broken.

Mrs. W. M. Dureault of Regina, a blood specialist at the RCMP crime laboratory, spent a considerable time in the witness box identifying bloodied and torn clothing found at the scene.

HUMAN BLOOD FOUND

Human blood was found on virtually all the exhibits and was classified by Mrs. Dureault as either "Group O" blood or blood that she could not group.

A large amount of woman's clothing, all caked with blood and torn in two, was also introduced.

Later, Const. W. R. Picton, a hair and fibres expert at the RCMP laboratory, testified that ripped clothing including a skirt, girdle, panties, slip and brassiere had been cut in two by a knife.

KNIFE FOUND

He said a knife found on the body of Charles Mudge or a knife found in the truck in which Till was later apprehended could have been used to cut the clothing.

Cpl. William A. Weeks of the RCMP Duncan detachment, gave evidence of the apprehension of Till on the Port Renfrew road, Sunday, Sept. 14.

The truck crashed off the road shortly after it was spotted by the RCMP patrol car, he said. Inside the cab was found a hunting knife.

"WHERE AM I"

The witness said Till's first words were: "Where am I? Where am I?"

Later Till said: "I am not armed."

"I said: 'are you sure?'" said Cpl. Weeks, "and he said: 'Yes'."

Cpl. Hugh Van Dusen, firearms expert from Regina, stated that he had examined some flesh taken from the back of Charles Mudge and that it contained a wound from a shotgun. He said there were no powder burns evident.

The witness said as a result of tests he made with the shotgun found in the house at 3460 Metchosin he had reached the conclusion that the wound was caused by a shot from four to 12 feet away.

The case will continue today.

Three Pilots Safer

MONTREAL (CP) — Pilots of Canada's two major airlines yesterday took steps to increase the number of pilots aboard heavy, complex airplanes on long flights.

The 10th convention here of the Canadian Air Line Pilots' Association, representing pilots of Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines, decided to press the transport department for more stringent interpretations and definitions of unsafe aircraft operations.

Specifically, the association wants big, heavy transport planes—above 80,000 pounds was suggested as a dividing line—to carry a crew of three pilots.

The association said certain planes cannot be operated by one man alone if an emergency requires the co-pilot to leave the flight deck, or if one of the pilots is stricken with sudden illness.

Wealthy Sect 'Leader' Beat Peasant Girl

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sun says that Stefan Sorokin, 56-year-old self-styled spiritual leader of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, lives in South America like a wealthy country squire while treating his tenant farmers as slaves.

In the third story of a series on the life of Sorokin, written by staff reporter Simma Holt, the Sun quotes Juan Dubikin and members of his family as victims of the temper and brutality of Sorokin.

"They chose to live in a mud house and wear rags for shoes rather than live in comfort as slaves to Sorokin."

The family fled from the orchard-rich farm of Sorokin at San Jose, Uruguay, after a daughter had been brutally beaten and the father had worked two years without pay.

Juan Dubikin, a Uruguayan peasant, told Mrs. Holt that Sorokin had made many promises.

"He told me he would keep me and my family under his protection," said Dubikin. He said Sorokin also told him: "I'm a wealthy man. Those people (the Freedomites) in Canada send me money."

Dubikin fled from the San Jose farm after his 23-year-old daughter Elsa had been beaten and to get "as far from that devil from Canada" as the family could afford to go. They now live in a hut 65 miles from San Jose.

A dispute in the orchard led to the beating of Elsa.

"He (Sorokin) became like a tiger," Elsa said in an interview with Mrs. Holt. "He jumped at me. He grabbed me by the hair. He kicked me."

Timidity of Perverts Child's Best Armor

CHICAGO (UPI) — An American Medical Association publication said yesterday that a child's best defence against sex perverts is immediate resistance.

"The sex criminal is usually timid and will leave a child alone if resisted at the outset of an encounter," the AMA said. "Seldom will a sex criminal pursue a girl or boy unless the child goes along with what is suggested.

"The most important thing to do is make certain children have a home where they feel loved, understood and safe," the article said. "Then they will come to their parents with anything out of the ordinary."

SS Sergeant Testifies:

Torture? No, Just in Bath

BONN, Germany (UPI) — A former concentration camp guard, defending himself against charges of murder and torture, told a German court yesterday he never beat camp inmates, "except when they were having a bath."

"I never beat inmates," said ex-guard Wilhelm "Pistol" Schubert, "except with my hands and feet."

Schubert and fellow former Elite Guard (SS) Sergeant "Iron" Gustav Sorge, were being questioned about accusations that they killed several inmates of Sachsenhausen concentration camp by beating them, trampling them under their feet, shooting them with a self-invented "killing machine" or forcing water from high-pressure hoses through their bodies.

Asked to testify on the case of a Dutch inmate, whose beard Schubert, according to the indictment, tore out with his bare hands before knocking him down and killing him by trampling him under his jackboots, Schubert said:

"I am not yellow, but I would be a coward if I remained silent on this. I know nothing of such killings. They were forbidden."

In Churches, Ceremonies

Sailors Will Join In Remembrance

In the churches and at ceremonies throughout the Greater Victoria area, Tuesday, the Pacific Command of the RCN will join with residents in remembering Canada's war dead.

Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer Pacific Coast, will take the salute at a parade past the Empress Hotel to the Cenotaph at the legislative buildings at 10.30 a.m.

The HMCS Naden band and two platoons of sailors will take part in the 11 a.m. services at the Cenotaph.

For the first time, shifts of four cadets from HMCS Venture will stand guard at the Cenotaph from 6 a.m. until the parade takes over at 10.30.

A platoon of men and a field gun's crew will participate in the Esquimalt observances and Commodore John Deane, superintendent of HMC Dockyard, will take the salute in front of the municipal hall.

At the 2 p.m. service at Memorial Gore in Saanich, one platoon of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron will attend. Capt. H. A. Porter, RCN, will lay a wreath.

A sentry, bugler and other personnel will take part at Langford ceremonies, and the Utility VU 33 Squadron at Patricia Bay will participate at Sidney. The 3 p.m. service at the memorial in Uplands Park, Oak Bay, will be attended by an HMCS Naden bugler and other personnel.

Rear Admiral Rayner will attend morning services at Christ Church Cathedral, and all off-duty personnel are expected to attend services of their own choice.

Special remembrance services will be held aboard all ships, and two minutes silence will be observed at 11 a.m.

A-Talks Get Nowhere

GENEVA (Reuters)—Britain, the United States and Russia Thursday completed their first week of talks on ending nuclear tests without even agreeing on how to begin a detailed study of the subject.

Despite the deadlock, fresh delegates from the East and West began arriving for a related conference to start Monday. They will hold talks on means of preventing surprise attacks.

The stalled conference, which is at the political level, failed for the fourth time Thursday to decide upon an agenda. Russia wants to talk immediately about a permanent test ban. The West wants to discuss control methods first and establish a year-to-year ban instead of a permanent one.

A brief announcement about Thursday's two-hour session said Britain submitted a document on an effective control system. No details of the British paper were disclosed.

Final Hour Clips Gains At New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market swept forward to another record high in heavy trading. Late profit-taking clipped many gains.

Gains by industrials were reduced about 40 per cent in the final hour as traders cashed profits on the big post-election rise of the last two sessions.

Chemicals retained some wide gains. Oils, rails, building materials and a host of selected issues were on the upside. Earlier gains were chopped and in some cases erased among the steels, motors, non-ferrous metals, airlines and drugs.

Steels Turn Lower

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials climbed to a record high of 507.31 before sliding back before late profit-taking.

Gains were widely spread across the industrial list but several of the seniors closed down. Algoma Steel was off 1 at 33 and Steel Company of Canada ¼ at 69¼.

Southam Co. was ahead 4¼ at 60 and General Electric 4⅛ at 67⅝.

Base metals were gaining strength at the close as coppers were strong. International Nickel added 1⅛ at 87 while Hudson Bay was ahead ¾ at 58¼.

Strife Helps Winter Jobs

Labor trouble during the past summer may be one of the answers to the unemployment problem this winter, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said yesterday.

He said strikes and lockouts had held back many projects which, unless weather interferes, will go ahead this winter.

Fire hazard during the summer cut down log inventories, which should mean a lot of work in the logging industry this winter.

Italians Fighting Mad Over Monty's Barbs

ROME — The Italian government and people have exploded in anger at Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery for taking digs at their wartime army in his newly-published memoirs and, among other things, demanded a ban on Montgomery-style duffle coats.

Premier Amintore Fanfani instructed his ambassador in London to make diplomatic representations to Britain against the "injurious aspersions cast upon the qualities of our soldiers."

Back in Britain, Montgomery said he would be delighted to frame the challenge and "stick it on the wall" as a souvenir.

Still Important to Navy

Oshawa Dons Mufti

HMCS Oshawa leaves the navy today but will still be important to it.

The research ship of the Pacific Command for the last two years will be paid off at 11 a.m. and transferred to the Canadian Naval Auxiliary service, and will continue such work as helping to provide better means of detecting enemy submarines.

Commissioned at Port Arthur, Ont., in 1944, the former Algerine-class minesweeper, re-designated [illegible] in 1953 and operated by the RCN for the past two years as a survey vessel for the Pacific Naval Laboratory, the Oshawa saw heavy war action long before becoming a research vessel.

After a refit to bring accommodation up to union requirements of the civilian crew which will man her, the Oshawa will go to her work with the PNL and the Pacific Biological Station, Nanaimo. Next tour of duty is in December. Her naval crew is released for operational training and duties with other west coast navy ships.

Oceanographic work carried out by the Oshawa to give scientists a better understanding of the travel of sound in the sea has been found to greatly aid submarine detection. The role of Canada's navy is anti-sub warfare.

Dr. William Ford, head of the PNL, said yesterday the Oshawa also has had an active part in seismic research connected with the giant Ripple Rock explosion, in fisheries research and has "contributed markedly to the knowledge of the oceanography of the north-east Pacific."

The Oshawa came here in 1946 and was paid off into the reserve fleet. She had seen almost continual sea duty in western Atlantic convoys from October, 1944, to June, 1945, during the Second World War. As senior ship of a Canadian convoy escort, she had taken part in capture of the first U-boat to surrender on the western side of the Atlantic.

She was refitted in 1956, commissioned into the fleet again, and replaced HMCS Cedarwood in PNL and Pacific Biological Station research duties. Her work will continue from today, but under a civilian crew.

Esks' Versatile Quarterback . . . . . Secret of Their Attack

Parker's Normal—His Feet Hurt

By The Canadian Press

The key to success for Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final with Saskatchewan Roughriders lies with Jackie Parker.

As Parker goes, so will go the Eskimos, whose attack this season has depended on the Tennessee Terror's brilliant versatility for its variety.

Today, the indications are that Parker will go well.

Reports from the training camp, where Eskimos wound up their home-park workouts Thursday evening, said Parker is as healthy as normal.

He had twisted his ankle in the closing game of the season in Regina last Saturday, and coach Sam Lyle said Wednesday he had a sore foot.

Sore feet are a normal hazard for the spindly-legged Parker, assistant coach Ted Youngling reported Thursday the twisted ankle has come around well.

He should be healthy for the opening game of the two-game total-points semi-final, scheduled at 2 p.m. MST (1 p.m., PST), in Regina Saturday. Second game is in Edmonton next Tuesday, also at 2 p.m. MST (1 p.m., PST).

At his physical best, Parker is rated among the most dangerous offensive players in football in Canada. His deceptive ball handling helps fullbacks Johnny Bright and Normie Kwong get away for good ground gains.

His ability to pass and run keeps the defence loose, and since he handles the club's punting, he's a natural for the occasional quick kick. He also handles the placement kicking and takes a turn on defence when the chips are down.

All this adds up to making the 26-year-old quarterback, who came to Edmonton in 1954 from Mississippi State, the most important cog in Eskimos' lineup as they head into the semi-finals.

Coach Lyle has other important men — Rollie Miles, Mike Lashuk, Oscar Kruger and Art Walker — especially when playing against the passing arm of Saskatchewan's Frank Tripucka.

TOPS ON DEFENCE

Miles and Lashuk have proven adept at intercepting forward pass attempts all season. Walker has been a bane to opposing quarterbacks as he crashes through the line to rush their throwing; and Kruger's value is pointed up by his selection as all-star safety man in the conference.

Kruger has been slowed up a little with a heavy cold during the last few days, but by Thursday had thrown it off and was recovering his strength. Lashuk, with a back ailment that comes and goes, is hampered some by the injury, but the only player who'll miss the game with injury is end Steve Bendiak.

On Riders' news Thursday also was heartening. Halfback Mike Hagler, the best punt-return man in the league, was running again and there was renewed hope his wrenched knee will be ready for Saturday.

End Larry Isbell, the club's leading punter, also is expected to return to action after missing a game with an ankle injury.

Meanwhile, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who finished in first place in the final standings and won the bye into the best-of-three final, have begun workouts again, concentrating on offensive plays for the opening of the final Nov. 15 against the Rider-Eskimo winner.

SUE BUTT . . . tennis queen

City Netters Top Seeded

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Victoria players have been ranked British Columbia's top women tennis players for 1958.

The rankings were released Thursday by the B.C. Lawn Tennis Association.

Sue Butt of Victoria is again ranked number one among the women and Sharon Whittaker has moved up from fifth place last year to second.

Miss Butt was ranked second in Canada last year and Miss Whittaker was the province's top junior in 1957.

Mirja Peterson, Victoria, is ranked fifth in this year's women's list and Maureen Bray, Victoria, is given an honorable mention.

All other women in the top 10 are from Vancouver. They are: 3, Bev Danby; 4, Claire Lovett; 6, Marg McLean; 7, Lee Dobson; 8, Joan Robinson; 9, Jocelyn Pease; 10, Wynne Myers.

WILLEY LEADS

Canadian Davis Cupper Paul Willey, ranked third in Canada last year, heads the men's rankings, followed by Louis Surville, Jack Pedlar, Art Jeffery, Bill Picken, George Morfitt, Bruce Jaffary, Jack Volrich, Alex Walker and Fleming Schott, all of Vancouver.

Arne Ahlen, Dave Wightman and Ray Gamlin, all of Vancouver, were ranked 1-2-3 in the junior men's under-18 division. John Fraser, Victoria, was fourth, the only player from outside Vancouver ranked.

Judy Gamlin, Vicki Berner and Hedy Rutzebeck, all Vancouver, topped the junior women's under-18 rankings. Wendy Cox, Victoria, was ninth.

In the junior girls' under-15 rankings Vicki Berner was first and Hedy Rutzebeck second. Bonnie Watson, Courtenay, Rosanne Idiens, Courtenay, and Joan McCormick, Victoria, were unranked because of insufficient data.

Tim Cummings and Ken Dahl topped the junior boys' under-15 list. John Fraser, Victoria, was not ranked because of insufficient data.

Winnipeg Damage Suit Dismissed by Judge

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench Thursday dismissed a $125,000 damage suit brought against Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League by Winnipeg Warriors of the Western League.

Mr. Justice A. M. Monnin, in a 29-page judgment, ordered the NHL clubs to return to Warriors $12,621 the western club paid as part of a two-year agreement among the three teams.

Under the greement, which began May 1, 1955, the NHL teams were to keep 15 players of Western League calibre or better on continuous loan to the Winnipeg club and in return the Warriors would pay the parent teams a percentage of its net aggregate profits during the agreement period.

Warriors claimed that during the 1956-57 season the Leafs and Canadiens provided only 10 players, four of which met WHL standards. The team placed last in the WHL that season, had the worst goals-against record in the league's history and also tied the record for the longest losing streak—14 games.

Warriors claimed damages on grounds the parent teams did not live up to the agreement, with the result the western team had a net deficit of $50,850 for the 1956-57 season. The farm team also sought return of the $12,621 paid on the previous year in which it won the league championship and enjoyed a net profit.

Most Players Drafted

The Winnipeg management said the NHL teams had lived up to the agreement in the 1955-56 season but most of the players on the championship club had been drafted to Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, also supported by Leafs and Canadiens.

The NHL clubs filed counter-suits for $25,000 each on grounds the Warriors team was mismanaged during the 1956-57 season. They claimed 18 players were sent to Warriors and several others offered were rejected by the WHL team. The counter-claims were dropped.

Mr. Justice Monnin said the Winnipeg team received enough players of WHL calibre from the parent clubs. He dealt individually with each player, giving his opinion of their quality.

Determining a player's calibre, he said, "is a knotty problem." Witnesses and counsel had gone to great lengths during a six-day hearing in September to define a player of WHL ability. In his personal assessment he had been guided by NHL and WHL press and radio guides, which list the players' past performance records.

The 10 players listed as assigned to the Warriors were: goalkeepers Gerry McNamara and Ed Johnston; defencemen Bill Burega, Noel Price, and Bob Kortje; forwards Hugh Barlow, Cec Hoekstra, Dick Van Impe, Pat Hannigan and Jim Logan.

Only Four Claimed Calibre

The Warriors said only Burega, Price, Barlow and Hoekstra rated as WHL material. The Leafs later recalled Logan, admitting he was not WHL calibre.

Mr. Justice Monnin found all but Logan on a par with other players in the league. He disagreed with testimony by Jack Perrin, general manager of the WHL team, that Van Impe and Hannigan, now both with New Westminster Royals, were too young for professional hockey when assigned to the Warriors.

Mr. Justin Monnin ruled the Western League club had failed to prove the parent teams did not provide sufficient players. He said that prior to the 1956-57 season the Warriors management had independently acquired six players of proven Western League ability. This meant, he said, the Leafs and Canadiens had to provide the team with nine WHL players. This had been done.

He remarked the agreement among the three parties "cannot be commended for its preciseness on any particular point. It is defective in that it does not provide machinery for assessment of the calibre of players in case of a dispute such as this."

Mr. Justice Monnin said some expenses listed by the Warriors in accounting for the losing year were unacceptable. Such were: travelling expenses for a team employee who went to see a game on the west coast; Perrin's expenses during his trip east to negotiate the agreement with the NHL teams, and transportation and living expenses for Winnipeg sports writers covering playoff games in Calgary.

O'Reilly Criticizes CAHA As Packers Fly to Russia

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Jack O'Reilly of the Kelowna Packers blasted the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Thursday for what he called "their lack of assistance in getting player help" requested by the Packers.

O'Reilly, on the eve of Kelowna's departure for a nine-game tour of Sweden and Russia, said:

"We asked the CAHA for help in August and we still haven't got it. We lost two key players and asked the CAHA to help us get replacements.

"A list of 50 players was given the CAHA," he said in an interview. "What happens? Saturday they send us two players from Winnipeg who haven't been in action since last spring.

"We're supposed to have a look at them and pick our team. That's just five days before we leave."

ATTEMPT GET HASSARD

O'Reilly criticized the CAHA for its "apparent disinterest in our attempts to get centre Bobby Hassard."

Hassard, suspended by the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League for refusal to turn out with the Bisons this fall, was first sought by Kelowna two months ago, said O'Reilly.

"We heard nothing from the CAHA, so we talked to Bobby ourselves and he indicated to us he was willing to make the trip," he said.

"Today we hear from President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League that Hassard is still a pro and the CAHA tells us at the last minute that they have made an agreement with the Russians that reinstated professionals will not be on the team."

Kelowna, Okanagan Senior Hockey League champions and Allan Cup finalists last year, left here for Montreal. They leave Montreal tonight and arrive at Stockholm on Saturday.

Packers will play four exhibition games at Stockholm —Nov. 9, 11, 12 and 13. They then travel to Russia for five games, Nov. 16, 18, 19, 21 and 23.

Selected to make the trip were Packer regulars goalie Dave Gatherum, defencemen Harry Smith, Andy McCallum and Bob Bergeron, and forwards Jim Middleton, Mike Durban, Bill Swarbick, Brian Roche, Moe Young, Gerry Goyer, Greg Jablonski, Russ Kowalchuck and Bill Jones.

Also named were goalie Marv Edwards, Windsor Bulldogs, Ontario Hockey Association; defencemen Tom Stecyk, Vernon Canadians, OSHL, and Jack Lancien, last year with Spokane Flyers, Western International League; forwards Clare Wakshinski, Penticton Vs, OSHL, and Freddie Dunsmore, Winnipeg Maroons.

New Blueliner Likes Travel

By GARTH WILTON

Ted Harris, Victoria Cougars' latest player acquisition, checked into town Wednesday after a hurried trip from one end of the continent to the other.

Sunday he'll be heading home, a trip that will take him halfway back across the same continent.

But the 22-year-old defenceman isn't leaving the Cougars —he's going with the team on their first swing through the eastern division.

The opening game of the road trip will be played in Winnipeg, where Ted played his junior hockey, makes his home and has a wife and eight-month-old son he hasn't seen for two months.

LONG TRIP

"That plane trip will do me for a while," Ted said last night, speaking of his plane trip from Springfield to Victoria.

He hadn't been told yet by Cougar coach Pat Egan that he would be starting out on another trip Sunday, one that would give him a chance to see his family and possibly give him a chance at his first Western Hockey League action.

A lanky 185-pounder, Ted played with the Winnipeg Monarchs for three years before joining the Philadelphia Ramblers of the amateur Eastern League where he played the past two seasons.

SHORE PROPERTY

Ted, the property of Eddie Shore, played nine games for the Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League this season before joining the Cougars.

He couldn't have picked a more opportune time.

The knee injury suffered by rookie defenceman Don McLeod Wednesday night left the Cougars with just four defencemen.

McLeod, who suffered a torn cartilage, will be out for at least 10 days.

PAT UNDECIDED

Egan was undecided as to who would replace McLeod for Saturday night's game.

"It could be Harris, but Dave Rimstad has been looking real good in practice," Egan said. "He likes to hit and he's been going down to block the shots in practice."

The Cougar coach said he planned to make no changes in the forward lines for Saturday's game and will take the entire team on the trip to the prairies."

Hockey Hits Africa

DURBAN, South Africa (CP) — In less than three years hockey has become one of the most popular indoor sports in this sub-tropical resort city on the Indian Ocean.

When the game was introduced here in 1955 by Doug Smith, a former Montreal Flyers' winger, only two of the 80 South Africans who volunteered to form a team could skate. Today, a four-team league with 174 players operates regularly before crowds of 3,000 in the new $800,000 icedrome.

"Except on film, none of our boys has ever seen a pro game," said Smith, a native of Halifax who came out to South Africa after the war.

Smith, a Durban businessman and president of the Natal Ice Hockey Association, said the introduction of hockey had such an impact that within six months the South Africans were taught to skate, an executive body formed and the first game played in public.

The teams, which play twice a month from January to November under international rules, are called Tomahawks, Rangers, Bears and Eagles. Two more teams are in the process of being formed.

The players, aged 18 to 32, are doctors, lawyers, tradesmen and office clerks who train in their spare time at night. Youngsters from 8 to 14 play in a pee-wee league.

But hockey in Durban has particular problems, not often faced in Canada, because of the extreme humidity and high temperatures. After many experiments, it has been possible to build up an ice surface of nearly two inches which won't melt away entirely during a game.

Another difficulty is equipment, particularly good quality skates which have to be imported from Canada. South Africa's dollar restrictions limit the amount of import equipment.

At present, apart from Durban, the only other hockey rink in Africa is at Johannesburg, where the game—also piloted by Canadians—has been played since 1936. However, Smith said negotiations now are in progress for additional new rinks at Port Elizabeth and Capetown in the union and at Salisbury in Southern Rhodesia. Plans also are being made to bring out amateur touring teams from France and Switzerland.

Colonist Trophy Today

Victoria High School and Oak Bay High School, perennial protagonists in the annual battle for the Colonist Cup, renew their rivalry today at Victoria High School in the opening game of a best-of-three series for the city high school soccer championship.

Cast in the role of favorite once again is the powerful Vic High squad, which is seeking its fifth straight Colonist Cup victory. Vic scored 36 goals and allowed its opponents only six this season, winning all five league games.

Second game of the series will be played at the Oak Bay grounds Wednesday and if a third game is necessary it will be played the following Friday at a field agreed upon by both teams.

McGill Beckons Bakhtiar

Jim Bakhtiar, Iranian-born fullback with the Calgary Stampeders, is considering enrolling at McGill University, according to a Montreal Gazette sportswriter.

Bakhtiar, a medical student at the University of Virginia before joining the Stampeders, is said to be interested in pursuing his studies in medicine at McGill.

However, if the Calgary backfield ace decided to give up his high-paying job as a professional football player to become a college student again, he would be unable to play football for McGill because playing for the Stampeders has deprived him of his amateur status.

A 23-year-old native of Abadan, Iran, Bakhtiar was an all-American candidate last year when he served as captain of the Virginia Cavaliers and set an Atlantic Conference single-game rushing record of 210 yards.

Garden Notes

Put Rose in $5 Hole

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In describing the planting of a rose bush I'm afraid you are going to accuse me of being overly fussy. I guess I am at that for I have to admit that you could simply dig a hole being the rose, toss it shovel some dirt over the roots and the thing would grow and bloom for the first year anyway.

The thing you have to remember [illegible] plants. Your bushes are going to be sitting in the same place for a long, long time and as you can't do much about making the soil more congenial to the roots after the bushes are planted the thing to do is to fix up a proper street residence for them beforehand.

[illegible]

[illegible] develop a really good rose section and that is why I am fussy about the way they are planted.

* * *

One of the really great gardeners of our time was the late Dr. Horace MacFarland. Who had at [illegible] the totally famous gardens at Berea, Hill Ohio. I had the pleasure of meeting the good doctor at a convention in Cleveland a couple of years before his death and one of the [illegible] he gave there was a talk on the planting of roses.

He told me his method and then went a step further in [illegible]. You know Mr. Chesnut, if a person is going to plant a 50-cent rose in a $5 hole I think he should plant a $5 rose in a $5 hole.

[illegible]

* * *

[illegible] for you can watch them and see if they need [illegible] water. Such a tendency [illegible] plant [illegible] indicate poor [illegible].

Another feature of the $5 hole is [illegible] enough to take all the roots spread out [illegible] or crowding [illegible]. This [illegible] about [illegible] deep [illegible] at the proper point [illegible] must be wide [illegible].

Saanich Councillors Split On Issue of Amalgamation

JOE FOSTER

Nelles, Murphy—Yes Austin, Todd-No

First Term Councillors

Issue a Moral One

"The amalgamation issue is a moral one. It is not a question of what individual may gain or lose right now. It is simply a question of what appears best for the future."

"As a Saanich resident I support the arguments for amalgamation as a councillor I recommend the same course for the sake of the future residents of the area and the future councils who must conduct their business."

Saanich doesn't have to fear the "bogeyman" of amalgamation its growth rate will give it a larger and larger voice at future elections, Coun. Nelles said.

Management under one roof would be a great asset he said. Only advantage now to racing around from one interdepartmental meeting to another," then going over them later again at Royal Oak, is ... to the manufacturers of gasoline and rubber tires, he said.

Time and efficiency is wasted now he said.

Mr. Nelles said a fine new capital region plan is nearing completion.

"But have you thought of the difficulty of getting it accepted by four municipalities several unorganized territories, and the provincial government?

"Why should common sense have to run such a gauntlet?"

Duplication in equipment even such equipment as office machines one bought in Saanich for $11,000 while three lay nearly idle in Victoria would be saved, he said.

As a final argument, he asked:

"Won't it be nice to have the acknowledged best city manager in Canada, Mr. Cecil Wyatt, managing our affairs, too . . . for free?"

'Let's Do This' Better, Says Expert

Don't Say 'Do This' to Child

TORONTO (CP) — It's never too soon to introduce democracy into a person's life, says Mrs. Victoria Wilkinson, president of Parent Education Associates and mother of two.

"Babyhood is the right time to introduce democracy," she says.

"Following the democratic theory of [illegible] decision [illegible] health in late life.

WOULDN'T IT BE BETTER

"This means replacing the instructions such as 'do this' or 'don't do that' with 'let's do this' or 'it's time to do this' and 'wouldn't it be better to do that'.

Back in Toronto Mrs. Wilkinson was special guest of the [illegible] in the United States and [illegible] Association [illegible] on parent education [illegible].

For instance, the remark that "It's time to go to bed" will produce a better response than the straight command. An older child can have explained to him that if he does not go to bed he won't be able to work properly at school next day.

And if children won't go to bed?

"An adult can't just be pushed around [illegible]

An older child can have a privilege withdrawn, such as watching television or going to church," says Mrs. Wilkinson.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

WHAT PRICE HOUSECLEANING? Do you pay for a shining home at the cost of your own appearance? It's an unnecessary practice!

The homemaker has beauty opportunities denied to other workers. As no other worker, she can devote a beauty routines with her labors. Here are just a few of the ways.

Before grimy tasks remove nail polish, slather on hand lotion and don work gloves. Afterward your hands will look like a salon product and your nails will be half way to a manicure.

For a skin treatment, cream your face prior to steamy jobs. The combination of cream and steam loses up the skin.

Apply tonic to your scalp and let it go to work for your hair's beauty while you work for your home's.

In performing every chore, try to bring all your muscles into play. Squat to pick up objects from the floor, reach to polish tables and floors, stand tall at the sink and pull your tummy in. These actions save fatiguing strain and what's more, keep your figure in fine trim.

BEAUTY OF HOUSEWORK

Attention homemakers! If housework sops your energies, loses and carries, send for my booklet, Beauty of Housework. It explains how to keep home and self sparkling with time to spare. Also included are an effort saving work plan, shortcuts in housekeeping and advice on how to give yourself a beauty treatment while engaged in your duties. For your copy, write me in care of your newspaper, enclosing 20 cents in coin and a large, stamped self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Rockefeller Trifle Uncertain

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller said she is not sure what it means to be the wife of the governor of New York State, but she is positive about one thing.

It does not mean she will feel bound that because she happens to be the wife of the president of the United States.

Mrs. Rockefeller opened her Manhattan Fifth Avenue apartment to the press Thursday and with candor, humor and apparent enjoyment of it all answered a variety of questions.

She made these comments:

"Nelson and I haven't given any thought at all to being governor and Mrs. Governor, or whatever you call me.

UNCERTAIN OF ROLE

"I don't know how we're going to conduct ourselves until we find out what it's all about. Just what my role as the governor's wife is, I'm not sure.

"I prefer ready-made clothes.

"I'm fortunate not having to cook myself. I'm not a very good cook."

"I love to entertain. I would say our guest list would grow in all directions."

As for the duties of the first lady of the state Mrs. Rockefeller said she expected to get some helpful pointers from Mrs. Averell Harriman, Mrs. Rockefeller and the wife of the outgoing governor are good friends — as are their husbands.

New home of Mr. and Mrs. Corneille is 742 Craigflower Road.

9 IN MEMORIAM

CORRY—In loving memory of dear Mother and Grandmother, Arthur L. Corry, who passed away Nov. 7, 1957.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasant to recall
He had a kind word for each,
And died unnoticed by all.
Sometimes we miss him most
Perhaps we think not when
To clasp his hand in the better land
Never to part again.
—Ever in our thoughts, his loving wife, Jessie, and family.

CORRY—In loving memory of a dear dad and grandfather, Arthur L. Corry, who passed away Nov. 7, 1957.
Peacefully resting, freeing a [illegible]
Earth's weary troubles and pains are past;
In patience he suffered long once
Be done.
The Lord called him home to suffer no more.
—Ever remembered by his son, Percy, daughter-in-law, Phyllis, and grandsons Denis and Don.

EARL—In loving memory of Mr. George Earl, who passed away, suddenly, one year ago Nov. 7, 1957.
The Pearly Gates were opened,
A gentle voice said "Come."
And so the struggle unspoken,
He gently entered Home.
—Sadly missed by his wife, Maud and sister, Nan Earl.

POWELL—In loving memory of Harold Powell, who passed away Nov. 7, 1957.
Memories are treasures
No one can steal.
Death leaves a wound
No time can heal.
A sweet thought brings many a tear:
Of those we miss and loved so dear.
—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

POULTON—Mrs. Lucy D. Poulton, in loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away Nov. 7, 1957.
One year has gone since that sad day,
When you I loved was called away;
God took her home it was His will,
But in my heart she lies still.
—Sadly missed by her daughter, Constance.

POULTON—In loving memory of our dear father, Percy Poulton, who passed away Nov. 7, 1957.
Lovely, remembered, always the same,
For loving family, friends, home,
Wife of Maude and Dear husband and her loving grandchildren.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" Stock 8, 10 and 12-inch widths, "FOREST" Siding is a new type of Siding obtained from specially selected Cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" Siding with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume adds to the structural strength and solidity of the building.

The design of "FOREST" Siding ensures a tight weather seal of the lap which, together with its base principle, makes excellent material from the insulation standpoint.

"FOREST" Siding represents an economy to home-builders. Costing less than most other types of Siding the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

Lansdowne turned over $5,496,367 and Exhibition $6,353,087, according to official figures.

Coffins of Emperor, Wives

Priceless Jewels Of Ming Dynasty Found in Tomb

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Priceless Ming treasures were found when the Chinese Communist authorities opened the underground tomb of Emperor Wan Li (1573-1620) after excavating for 16 months to find the carefully sealed entrance.

In olden times, to enter the tomb would have been a sacrilege punishable by the execution of the offender and all his relatives.

The vice-minister of culture, Cheng Chen-to, who took part in the excavations, said the tomb was found in an underground palace. Three great doors, each built of a single slab of carved marble, led from a great hall to inner chambers. When the doors were pushed open, brass chimes rang from the lintels.

The coffins of Emperor Wan Li and his two wives were at the far end of the main chamber.

The official Communist New China news agency reported that outside the coffin were boxes of jade, jewels, pewterware and gold ornaments from the South Seas, India, Ceylon and Turkey.

Wan Li, 13th emperor of the Ming Dynasty, ascended the throne when he was 10 years old. When only 21, he was busy looking around for a site for his mausoleum.

According to the agency report, it cost 8,000,000 taels (about 10,600,000 ounces) of silver to build, with the labor of tens of thousands of civilian workers and soldiers.

The South China Morning Post said all the contents of the great marble tomb appear to be intact, and the work of restoration may even include the emperor's features.

Two-Year-Old African Trial Off Till 1959

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP)—The trial of 91 persons on charges of conspiracy against the state will open early next year — more than two years after it first developed.

The defendants originally were charged with treasonably conspiring to set up a Communist state.

Last month, the defence counsel challenged the prosecuting attorney to make the charges more specific. But the prosecutor withdrew the charges, announcing that new ones would be laid later. The defendants are free on bail.

Science Station Breaks Up

Marooned on Floe, 21 Await Rescue

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) —Twenty-one men, marooned when a violent storm broke their bleak Arctic Ocean ice island in two, awaited rescue yesterday as polar winds tore at their tiny, exposed floe.

The Alaskan Air Command, ready to make its rescue move as soon as the storm abates, said the 21 men who made up the complement of the International Geophysical Year station are in no immediate danger.

The 10-foot-thick ice island, known as Drifting Station A, broke in two Sunday under the pounding of an unseasonable polar storm. The island was 960 miles northeast of Barrow, Alaska, and 600 miles northwest of Thule, Greenland.

The 21 men were on the campsite-half of the island when it broke apart. The rescue was complicated because the 2,000-foot aircraft runway was on the other half of the mile-long, mile-wide floe.

Before the rescue could be completed, the 11 air force men, nine scientists and Rev. Tom Cunningham, a Barrow expert on the polar regions, had to make a dash by small boat across 1½ miles of open water from their half of the island to the runway half.

Many Born in Africa, Prosperous

East Indians Herded By Apartheid Laws

By LYNN HEINZERLING

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Apartheid has caught up with the Asiatic Indians in Pretoria.

Provisions of South Africa's Group Areas Act have been [illegible] 7,000 Indians face a new life in the name of apartheid.

Indians have been living in Pretoria for 75 years, since it was a sun-baked community of a few stores and a blacksmith shop. They made their living mostly as traders.

They settled along Prinsloo Street and in the Asiatic bazaar area. Some of the Indian businessmen work in air-conditioned offices and drive big automobiles. A large majority, restricted in their activities, live on the edge of poverty. The sandy acres of the Asiatic bazaar are crowded with makeshift shacks where many live.

They have been living in dread since 1950, when the Group Areas Act was passed. Under this Indians, Africans and colored people are gradually being moved into segregated areas with the announced purpose of ensuring white survival.

This is the way the recently proclaimed implementation of the act in Pretoria works out:

Five Indian stores in the central area of the city and 11 on the southern edge of the main business district, along with 42 stallholders in the municipal market on Prinsloo Street, will have to vacate their premises within the next eight months. Nearly 70 traders in suburban areas must give up their locations.

The 127 Indian stores in Prinsloo Street—which Indian leaders say provide a livelihood for 2,500 persons—will have to be cleared within three years.

T. E. Joosub, president of the Indian Commercial Association, estimated Indian property investments in this one area as $14,000,000.

A barren, rocky expanse of veld seven miles southwest of Pretoria has been set aside as the Indian township. There are no utilities and little transportation for it. The township is sited over the crest of a hill so it will not be visible from the main road. Over another hill on the opposite side is a township for Negroes.

Joosub said the soil of the proposed township will limit horticulture there to rock gardens.

He said 90 per cent of the 400,000 Indians in South Africa were born there.

Korean Republic Calls Reds' Bluff

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Republic of Korea challenged Communist North Korea yesterday to permit the United Nations to verify the announced withdrawal of Red Chinese forces and to supervise elections to reunify the divided Asian peninsula.

Korean Ambassador You Chan Yang told the General Assembly's political committee that the Communists were seeking to gain a propaganda advantage from "this transparent strategem of the withdrawal" and their proposal for elections under "a neutral nations organ."

The announced decision of Communist China to withdraw its forces from North Korea, Yang said, might be similar to the 1948 Soviet decision to withdraw "which, alas, proved later to be the preliminary step for the military aggression against the Republic of Korea."

"All that we ask is to have our own territory recovered from foreign aggression and to reunite with our brethren in the north," Yang said.

Labor Man Hits Back at 'Gangster' Gibe

Clean Own House, Socreds Told

Victoria Labor Council delegates Wednesday night advised the Social Credit party to clean its own house before saying unionists are "Communists" and controlled by "Chicago gangsters."

William Gauld, representative of the Canadian Labor Congress here, rose at a council meeting to condemn a Victoria woman delegate to the recent Social Credit convention in Vancouver.

He quoted a Canadian Press report published in The Colonist as saying the woman said "the only ones who attend the (union) meetings are those who got their education in Russia."

Turning to the front page of the same issue, where it reported jury convictions in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy case, he declared, "They can't even clean their own house."

"We in our own house of labor feel quite competent to clean our own house," he said, if any graft, corruption, outside domination or Communist influence should become apparent. None has yet, he said.

Mr. Gauld scored R. O. Ney of Oak Bay, another Socred convention delegate, who had said he would "like" to give control of Canadian unions back to the rank and file instead of the gangsters from Chicago."

Mr. Ney should put his charges in writing to the Victoria Labor Council or to me as representative of the CLC, to which all Canadian unions are affiliated, or he should retract completely, Mr. Gauld said.

He noted that "certain cabinet ministers and MLAs" in the provincial government are trade union members. But he said it was evident the other line of thinking was very strong in the party.

Delegate Percy Rayment said unions shouldn't worry too much about such charges. They'd been enduring them for years and "we can't expect much else from the Social Credit party, that's for sure."

E. T. Staley, VLC vice-president, congratulating Washington State unionists' job in defeating a "right to work" initiative in Tuesday's elections, said it provided moral support to the job labor has to do here.

Mr. Staley scored Premier Bennett for using the Civil Defence Act to return struck Black Ball Ferry ships to work this summer and Victoria Liberal MLA George Gregory for advocating legislation that would restrict the labor movement.
